David Held est décédé le 2 mars 2019.

Il était l'un des théoriciens britanniques des relations internationales les plus influents de sa génération, connu pour ces travaux sur la théorie de la démocratie, la globalisation et le cosmopolitisme.

Dans le cadre du projet de recherche du professeur Olivier de Frouville à l'Institut Universitaire de France, «Autour d'une théorie démocratique du droit international», le CRDH/Paris Human Rights Center organise une conférence pour évoquer sa vie et ses travaux, de la théorie critique jusqu'au cosmopolitisme contemporain.

La conférence réunira des membres de la famille de David Held, des juristes internationalistes, des philosophes et des théoriciens des relations internationales.
